

Why Choose Paris?

Paris — 'ville lumière' — is famous for its Haussmann boulevards, Gothic architecture, culture and cuisine. It sits at the heart of Europe with two hours to the beach or mountains, an extensive Metro network, bullet trains, buses and free city bikes.

Living in Paris

France offers one of the world's best quality-of-life packages: universal medical insurance, strong pension coverage, workplace accident protection, and comprehensive family support including childcare and education. As a culinary capital, Paris is home to the Michelin guide, and the French take their restaurant lunch culture seriously — one hour at minimum, often two.

Working in Paris

Paris is rapidly becoming a major global financial hub, with HSBC, JP Morgan, Morgan Stanley, Citigroup, Goldman Sachs and BlackRock all expanding their operations in the city. The labour market is active across finance, tourism, research, IT, communication and medical sectors.

Employees in France benefit from competitive salaries, 35 official working hours per week, 25 paid holidays plus RTT and bank holidays — some of the most generous time-off provisions in Europe.
